HOPE IS HELD OUT

Attendants at the Vatican
Now Believe That He May Be on Road to Recovery.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Rome, 3 p. m.—The pope was sufficiently well this morning to be shaved. Functional disorders have passed. This afternoon the prelates and attendants at the Vatican for the first time began to hope for the pope's partial recovery. When told that the doctors did not agree with this view they told the doctors they knew his holiness better than they did.

Some Hope
London, July 9.—Word from the Vatican this afternoon announces that some hope has been felt for his holiness' partial recovery. The pope took beef tea twice today.

Rome, July 9.—After an extended delay which caused great anxiety the pope's physician issued a favorable bulletin as to his condition late this morning. The delay has given a very unfavorable impression of his real condition. The report says: "Night was tranquil. Much of it was spent in sleep by the pope. Process pneumonia is much more resolved in those parts of the lungs not covered by a small quantity of liquid which still exists in the pleural cavity. General conditions continue to be maintained but more relaxed." Pope has not yet been informed of the death of Volpini. Owing to the fact he was a personal friend of his holiness it is thought it would have a bad effect upon him.

Just on the Edge
Rome, 2 p. m.—While it was officially stated that his holiness' condition remains unchanged it was learned from trustworthy sources that his life is just balancing between life and death. Prolongation of existence is considered a miracle. His mind remains as strong and firm as ever. Mr. Volpini, secretary of the consistory and the man who would have been secretary of the conclave to elect a new pope died this morning. He was stricken with syncope yesterday in the ante-room while waiting news from the holy father. Volpini's death is a remarkable coincidence as he was one of the last to be honored by the pope. A reporter of the Patri was also stricken with apoplexy while waiting in the ante-chamber of the Vatican this morning and died shortly after being taken out.

About Ten
Rome, 10 a. m.—All was quiet at the Vatican this morning and his holiness was resting easier after a most restless night. Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni held a consultation with Dr. Cardana, a noted specialist, this morning. The physicians continue to employ every means modern science can provide to keep their patient alive. It is believed a censorship on all news has been established now that the pope is approaching the end.

Has Restless Night
During the early part of the night his holiness was somewhat restless. The occasional brief periods of sleep were disturbed by difficulty in breathing. Dr. Lapponi and Pope Leo's valet, Pio Centra, did their best to nourish the patient at brief intervals. The pontiff spoke little and seemed much depressed. Chloral and caffeine were administered with good effects. About sunrise the pontiff fell into a more restful sleep than he had had all night.

Suffers Acutely
It is stated in the bulletins that he suffered acutely this morning, and when the doctors examined him he said:

"Pray leave me in peace. I feel that the end is coming."
Afterward he fell into a torpor, but rallied at midday, when he summoned his secretary and dictated a number of letters. The dictation, however, was frequently interrupted by periods of exhaustion. He once said:

"Never during my illness have I felt so ill as to-day."

Is Ready for Summons.
"I have no longer any hope of life. I have a presentiment that this very day the Most High will summon me to appear in his presence. I feel no regret at quitting life. To-day in the churches begins a nine days' devotion of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, and the devout faithful praying to the holy virgin will also offer prayers for my poor person. I die calmly. I am conscious of having endeavored to discharge my duty for the good of the church and humanity. I know not how the world will judge my deeds, but Almighty God knows my motives and has given me a tranquil conscience on the threshold of eternity."
There is a torrent of inquiries from every diocese and nation in the world. President Roosevelt's inquiries are sympathetically referred to by several officials.

Possible Successors.
It is remarked that, according to the prophecies of St. Malachi, Pope Leo's successor will correspond to the words "Ignis Ardens," and it is noted that the eschatons of Cardinals Oreglia di Santo Stefano and Gotti, which bear a burning altar, and the eschaton of Cardinal Srampa, which bears lighted torches, are indicated by the words. Cardinal Manara's eschaton has a flame depicted as licking the hand of a tribune.

It is stated that Cardinal Oreglia di Santo Stefano, who is known to be opposed to much of the Vatican's recent policy, exclaimed that when he was carrying his rod in the capacity of camerlingo he would use it on the backs of some of the prelates who had taken shameful advantage of the pope's decrepitude.

Inquires for Volpini.
The wonderful vitality of the remarkable old man is combating a complication of diseases, which would endanger a strong man in the prime of life.

The corner of the palace which remained lighted the longest was the apartments of Cardinal Rampolla, where the lights were extinguished only a short time after those in the room where Monsignore Volpini, one of the pontiff's most intimate friends, is lying in a serious condition as a result of the attack of syncope that he suffered. Pope Leo, as though he had second sight, has asked several times why Monsignore Volpini has not been to see him. Naturally the condition of Monsignore Volpini has been kept from the pope.

Conflicting Rumors.
Throughout yesterday the reports from the sick room alternated with fears and hopes. At times rumors of the gravest character gained currency. Out of the mass of contradictory reports the essential features of the pope's actual condition are indicated in the bulletins issued at 9:45 yesterday morning and at 8:15 last evening, bearing the signatures of the two attending doctors. The early bulletin was noticeably free from technical language. During the night the pope had seemed but little refreshing sleep, and with this sleeplessness was augmented depression. The difficulty in breathing had increased and a derangement of the kidneys began to seriously manifest itself.

Bulletins Are Frank.
These complications were fully and frankly stated by the doctors. Their official bulletin was supplemented in the course of personal conversation, in which they showed that they entertained scarcely any hopes of recovery. Yet they always qualified their statements, setting forth the remarkable constitutional strength and indomitable energy of the patient as the most striking evidence of his almost superhuman will.

They instanced the dying man's leaving his bed during the morning and taking several steps unaided, save by a cane, to an arm chair. When this became known, many were disposed to criticize the doctors for permitting such an exhausting effort, but it was explained that the entire absence of fever, the temperature being even below normal, eliminated the danger of syncope from this exertion. Moreover, the attending physicians recognized that they were battling with a man of iron will, who does not know the meaning of restraint.

Conditions Favor Patient.
Fortunately, all the climatic conditions in Rome for the time being are favorable to the sufferer. The air is deliciously cool, and there is a complete absence of the enervating stodge which depresses and kills. The bright sunshine streams into the papal apartment. The encouraging conditions are further augmented by the constant use of artificial means of respiration, including steady supplies of oxygen.

Except for the brief time he passed in the armchair the Pope lay in bed throughout the day, shifting his position frequently without assistance, and occasionally taking a small draught of diluted wine with the yolks of eggs. The only solid food he has taken is calves' brains and meat broth.

"Don't the Doctors.
The later official bulletin, following a consultation between Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni, completely contradicted the alarmist reports, and gave a most favorable statement. This was disclosed in the improved pulse, better respiration, and ameliorated general condition.

Dr. Mazzoni said, in a conversation following the issuance of the 8:15 p. m. bulletin, that while the Pope's condition still continued desperate, recovery was not entirely impossible. Unfortunately, some elements in the population of Rome, including a few who are high in the councils of the Vatican, are inclined to cast doubt on the sincerity of the bulletins.

May Hold Consultation.
This led during the day to a strong movement in favor of calling other physicians. The theory of the initiators of this movement was that Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni had misjudged the disease, taking for pneumonia what was really pleurisy. Both accepted the idea of a consultation with any of their colleagues.

INSPECTOR BETRAYS
SECRETS TO REPORTERS

Inform Newspaper Men of Proceedings of Board Revising Steamboat Rules.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)

Washington, July 9.—Trouble is in store for a member of the board of supervising inspectors of the United States' steamboat inspection service. For a month or more this board has been in session at Washington at work upon an extensive revision of the rules and regulations governing the service. The work has been of great importance and was supposed to have been conducted in strictest secrecy, but from time to time certain bits of information concerning the deliberations of the board and its probable conclusions have been published in newspapers where they have been read with profit by steamboat owners and others interested in the operations of the steamboat inspection service.

Inquiry has led to the belief that the leak has occurred through a western member of the board, and it is understood that this man will be called upon by Secretary of Commerce and Labor Cortelyou to explain the matter. If he cannot do this he will be asked to resign his position. It is thought, however, that Charles H. Westcott of Detroit, who is supervising inspector of the Eighth district, which includes Chicago, is not the man. No penalty is provided, but the one which will be invoked in case the offense can be proved is that of dismissal.

London, July 9.—All the regular clauses of the Irish land bill being adopted, the house of commons today took up the newly proposed clauses on the first of which the government showed the smallest majority of the white debate. Irish Secretary Wyndham proposed appropriating $25,000 annually out of the development grant, to indemnify Trinity college, Dublin, for any loss of income arising from the sale of land owned by the college.

A number of private members' clauses were then submitted and discussed at length. Mr. Wyndham then moved amendment to schedule 1 providing for the payment to the landlords of a uniform bonus of 12 per cent. This was agreed to, although the nationalists plainly intimated their intentions of reopening the question on the report stage.

The bill, as amended, then passed through its committee stage and was reported to the house amid cheers.

SHOT HIMSELF,
THIS MORNING

Charles F. Randall Took
His Life, with a Revolver, Soon After Breakfast.

WAS DESPONDENT

He Had Suffered from Long
Illness, and Tobacco Plants Had Been Unsuccessful.

Despairing of a successful growth of tobacco, and depressed by stomach trouble of two months' duration, Charles F. Randall this morning fatally shot himself in the right temple, a revolver being the weapon.

Thomas Edden had a business appointment with Mr. Randall for this morning and about eight o'clock drove to the house. He failed to find Mr. Randall at home and started to drive away. He had gone but a short distance when his attention was called to the fact that Randall had returned from a neighbor's and was entering his barn.

Occurred in Hay Mow

Driving back, Mr. Edden was about to enter the barn when he heard two shots in quick succession. He immediately began a search, looking everywhere, except in the hay mow. Finally he summoned neighbors and the body of Mr. Randall was after a short hunt discovered in the hay mow, reclining against a mound of hay.

Doctors were summoned, but it was evident that death had been immediate. Only one wound could be discovered, where a bullet had entered above the right temple.

Breakfast as Usual

Mr. Randall took his breakfast as usual this morning. He has occupied the large house on the Randall homestead alone since the death of his parents, and has taken his meals at the house of Mrs. Stenson. He complained to Mrs. Stenson that his head seemed on fire, and declared that he seemed unable to endure it.

After chatting for a short time he went toward his home. He then went to another neighbor's where he asked the loan of a revolver, saying that he wished to shoot a cat.

The revolver was given him and he turned back toward home. It was as he was entering the barn, after he had secured the weapon with which he intended to end his life, that he was seen by Mr. Edden.

Tried to Get Weapon

Several days ago Mr. Randall requested another neighbor that he be allowed to borrow a revolver. He asserted that he wished to end the life of a troublesome skunk. The instrument could not be found, and that circumstance may have prolonged Mr. Randall's life a couple of days.

Early this week he went to Pierson's gun shop and purchased some cartridges, with what intent is not known.

Had Long Been Ill

For a number of months Mr. Randall has been suffering from stomach complications, and for the past two months the ailment has been more acute.

Daily he complained of his growing nervousness, and at times of headaches and bursting sensations in his head.

Last evening he went to Mrs. Stenson's house at nine-thirty o'clock and talked for some time, his growing nervousness and unrest being apparent. Monday evening of this week he went down town and talked with Frank Willey, a life-long friend, until after midnight, seeming loath to leave him.

Tobacco Crop Backward

His restlessness and dissatisfaction with his condition was increased by the suffering condition of the tobacco crops on his farm, which is located just inside the east boundary line of the city. Many of the plants had failed and he could not secure others.

Charles F. Randall was forty-seven years of age. He has no near relatives in this city and accurate information is lacking, but a cousin expresses the belief that he was born at Norristown, Pennsylvania, although he moved here at a very early age.

Since the death of his parents, several years ago, he has occupied alone the spacious home on the Randall homestead. The house is situated at 56 Ruger avenue.

Brother of Gen. Randall

One brother and a sister survive Mr. Randall.

Mrs. Charles McKenny of Chicago has been summoned and she will arrive in this city at seven o'clock this evening. Until her arrival no funeral arrangements will be made.

Brigadier General George M. Randall, his brother, has been telegraphed at Vancouver Barracks, Washington, where he is located as commanding general of the department of Colorado, United States Army. He has been in the service since the war of the rebellion, but has visited his brother here frequently, the last time being a year ago last winter.

Capt. Lachse of Escanaba has joined the Salvation Army in this city.

CROP OUTLOOK MOST PROMISING

EVERYTHING NOW POINTS TO RECORD-BREAKING RESULTS.

RAIN WAS NEEDED VERY BADLY

It Will Be of Much Benefit to the Growing Crops and Fields in General.

Hot sun is all right for haying and for giving the final touch to grains but too much of it for corn without a sufficient amount of moisture is sure to bring bad results. Rock county has had its share of hot dry winds and what it most needs now is a good soaking rain. Not only does the corn need it but the tobacco crop which might be called the crop of the county must have it or be practically ruined in the beginning of what looked to be a most prosperous season. Rain is needed for the gardens, and the soaking rain of last night means thousands of dollars in the farmers' pockets in the fall.

Good Outlook. The general outlook is good. Hot weather has brought the crops up to their normal condition at this time of the year. The average temperature of 80 to 90 degrees at noon has shot up the grains and corn in a wonderful manner and with rain to back it up it will not only be a moderate crop but a large crop when harvest time comes. Winter wheat and rye are maturing rapidly.

General Garden Luck. Tomatoes have made the greatest stride in the past few days and from present indications this vegetable should be plentiful this fall. Already in many places the fruit is hanging on the vines as large as tea cups and the plants show a sturdy growth that betokens a healthy fruit. Late peas are now coming in and are large and luscious. Beans and sweet corn will soon be along and potatoes are doing most excellent work.

Turkeys and Chickens. Turkeys and chickens are coming along at a fast rate. Many a farmer wife is planning for her winter dress from her flock of broilers and her Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys. Mode wise last year by the scarcity of fowls on the market many farmers have allowed more care to be taken to the development of their broods this year than in the past. There is always a market for fowls and with little care and trouble they are at first the returns are two fold when the market time comes.

Hay Crop. A large hay crop will be harvested from one end of the state to the other. The demand for baled hay has become so great in the past few years that the majority of this year's crops will be baled. It is much easier to handle in the baled form and is much more marketable, that is to carry to market. Of course many farmers will stick to the old methods and their financial results will be the same as usual.

Cattle. The farm cattle are in most excellent shape. Good pasturage early in the spring has brought the herds into excellent condition and the butter and milk are plentiful. Many a wood lot has been turned into the general pasturage by economical farmers and the cattle can graze in the shade during the hot noon day and on the field grasses during the morning and evening. Horses also are looking well. Local horse buyers complain that the farmers do not wish to sell their animals and that a scarcity will come before long in the city markets.

Great Benefits. With the rural delivery of mail, the telephone service and now the coming weather reports being sent out by 'Phone the farmer of today has great advantages over his predecessors. He can remain at home except for his marketing and can even sell his crop by telephone instead of having to haul it about the streets. Interurban cars will soon run from one end of the county to the other, and this will make life even more easier than ever for the agriculturalists.

FORM EASTERN FAIR CIRCUIT

Secretaries of Fairs Met and Formed an Association, at Fond du Lac.

The Eastern Wisconsin Fair circuit was formed at La Crosse by the secretaries of fair associations for the purpose of providing races for the annual fairs. Fond du Lac, Berlin, Chilton, Plymouth, and Milwaukee were represented, and races were arranged for each city, those in Milwaukee to be given in connection with the state fair.

G. A. Schumaker of Chilton was elected president of the circuit and C. W. Hitchcock of Berlin secretary. The sum of $21,000 is to be hung up in prizes for the races of the circuit, which are to be as follows:

Berlin—Aug. 25-28.
Plymouth—Sept. 1-4.
Milwaukee—Sept. 7-11.
Chilton—Sept. 14-16.
Fond du Lac—Sept. 16-18.

The amounts hung up in purses for each of the meetings are as follows:
Berlin, $1,500; Plymouth, $1,500; Milwaukee, $12,000; Chilton, $3,000; Fond du Lac, $1,500; total, $21,000.
The Fond du Lac society having a mile track (kilo), its race program is faster than those of the other county fairs. Seven events are scheduled: 2:50, 2:14, 3:00, 2:23, 2:18, 2:29, and a free for all, the latter being for a purse of $350.

Raised Prices Then
Janesville Gazette, July 9, 1903.—The invasion of Pennsylvania has given the coal dealers a pretense for raising the price of coal several dollars a ton.

ENORMOUS WEALTH OF DYING PONTIFF

Ready Cash Amounts to Something Over $20,000,000, and Many Jewels.

On Pope Leo's death his immense fortune will be divided among his nephews according to his will made within the last three days. He is probably the wealthiest pope that the world has ever seen. He accumulated an enormous fortune during his busy life. It is doubtful if anyone knows the actual amount, but a recent estimate placed his ready cash at $20,000,000. Most of the huge sum was deposited in the Bank of England. He was always a good business man and a successful financier, and he has probably left the holy see not only free from debt, but with an annual income considered in excess of its expenditures.

In addition to the cash and real estate which the pope held, his collection of jewels is probably richer than that of any European sovereign. Most of the gems were gifts. One of his notable treasures, curiously enough, came to him from the hands of one of the most stubborn Protestants since Luther—former President Kruger. It came out of the Kimberley mines and is valued at $4,000,000.

In the collection are thirty tiaras set in diamonds, emeralds, rubies and pearls, and upwards of a hundred rings, one of the most magnificent being a present from the sultan. This contains a marvelous beautiful blue diamond, which is valued at nearly $250,000. Of old crosses the selection contains 318 set with all kinds of precious stones.

The number of chalices and vessels used in the ceremonies of the church exceeds 2,000, and they are all more or less richly incrustated with jewels of every existing variety. The tiara actually worn by the pope—splendid as it is—is far from being the equal of a dozen others which have been worn at the Vatican since the days of Boniface VIII, each of which eclipsed its predecessor in cost and beauty.

J. P. Byron is registered at the Pfister in Milwaukee.

DEATH CLAIMS COL. E. B. GRAY

Prominent G. A. R. Man Dies in Chicago—Once Lived at Whitewater.

Col. Edmund B. Gray, one of the most widely known figures in Wisconsin military circles, died yesterday morning at the residence of his son, M. B. Gray, 561 Sawyer street, Chicago. Death resulted from paralysis. The remains may be brought to Milwaukee for interment.

Col. Gray was a native of Vermont, having been born in the state in 1826. After a preparatory education he entered the University of Vermont with the intention of entering educational work. Upon graduation he began teaching school and was at one time assistant superintendent of education of Illinois. He was also employed as principal at the high schools of Racine, Sheboygan and other places. At the breaking out of the civil war he was principal of the high school at Sheboygan, Wis. He left that work to become captain of Co. C, Fourth Wisconsin Infantry.

Col. Gray took up his military career April 25, 1861. He served with his regiment until Aug. 10, 1862, when he was appointed major of the Twenty-eighth Wisconsin Infantry. During the following May he was advanced to lieutenant colonel and March 16, 1864, became colonel of the regiment. At the close of the war he returned to Whitewater after the regiment was mustered out. After the war Col. Gray devoted himself to the organization of the Grand Army of the Republic. In 1886 he acted as adjutant general of the organization under Gen. Lucius Fairchild, also acting as adjutant to Commander-in-Chief A. G. Weissert in 1892 and 1893. He was the Wisconsin department commander during the years 1897-1898.

For three months Col. Gray had been a sufferer from paralysis. Last summer his health failed and he spent a time at Battle Creek, Mich. He received some benefit and decided to go to Chicago. There his health again failed him and he grew steadily worse until his death, which took place at 9:45 o'clock yesterday morning.

PRETTY PLAY AT THE MYERS GRAND

Walton Pyre and His Company of Players Appear Tonight in a Russian Honeymoon.

What promises to be one of the prettiest of plays will be presented here this evening by Mr. Walton Pyre and his company of players. "A Russian Honeymoon" is the title of the vehicle chosen by Mr. Pyre and his cast includes the pick of the Capital City's Theatrical inclined young people. It is not an amateur production as every member of the company is a student of dramatic art and has taken prominent parts in previous productions staged at Madison. Mr. Pyre himself was Otis Skinner's stage manager during the past season and goes back to him in the fall to join the Skinner-Hobson combination. Under his careful management the production has been brought up to a most perfect state and the performance promises to be a marked success.

Beautiful Music
Under the leadership of Mr. Bredin, the choirmaster of Grace church, Madison, the chorus has been most carefully trained. Many of the singers have had not only the teaching of Mr. Bredin, but of some of the best teachers in Europe. Miss Edith Gibson, who takes the part of Nika, a peasant girl, has recently returned from Europe where she spent a year in study. Others of the young ladies have been members of the university school of music and the men of the chorus are all picked from the Grace church choir.

The Cast
Mr. Pyre takes the part of Alexis; Miss Sheppard, Polesia; Miss Fola LaFollette, daughter of Governor Micheline; Felix Krembs, Konikoff; Ralph Rounds, instructor of elocution at the University of Illinois; Ivan; E. A. Bredin, Ostip; Caroline, Polvor; Baroness Vladimir. The peasants, vassals and retainers are the following: Fedor, Albert Showers; Michael, Claude Abel; Demetri, Robert Hiestand; Olaf, George Fernick; Rudolf, Leonard Nelson; Peter, Olaf Nelson; Olga, Amelia France; Nika, Edith Gibson; Marfa, Edith Bailey; Rita, Rose Winterbottom; Sylvia, Mable Palmer; Fatima, Leora Fryette.

JANESVILLE IS NOT IN DANGER

Local Ice Companies Will Not Raise Their Prices This Summer.

Local ice dealers say that there will be no raise in the price of that much-sought-after commodity, so far as they now know. There is no possibility of an ice famine, even though the extreme hot weather should continue for a month and citizens will be able to keep cool all summer. Janesville consumes a large amount of ice for a town of its size, one concern alone, the J. E. Luman Co., disposing of 5,000 tons in a season. All of this ice is taken from Crystal Lake, situated about 45 miles south of Janesville. About 50,000 tons were taken from this lake last season in about four crops. Much of this ice is shipped to Chicago.

A Big Storehouse
One of the largest icehouses built by this company, on another lake, is 1200 feet long, 400 feet wide and 75 feet to the roof. The capacity of this immense structure is 600,000 tons of ice at one time.

Five Tons of Ice Cream Lost
Chicago experienced a severe ice famine during the Fourth. This was due in part to the railroads, and other companies, laying off so many men on that day. Many people were heavy losers as a result. One Chicago man, who handles large quantities of ice cream, was unable to get a sufficient supply of ice to keep his stock for that day and had five tons of ice cream spoil. This vast amount being a total loss.

PRESS COMMENTS

Fond du Lac Reporter: To cart Plymouth Rock, the liberty bell or any similar relic about the country is ridiculous. It may be well enough to exhibit such things at World's fairs, etc., but to make dime museum attractions of them would be sacrilege.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The prosecution of the southern planters who are accused of the crime of peonage, has just commenced but if the verdicts already reached are an indication of what may follow, this disreputable business will be discouraged and a new set of prisoners secured.

Manitowoc Pilot: Education is not simply acquiring knowledge. It is a great deal more. It trains and develops the great organ. There may be no practical use of Latin, or Greek to many who study them, but they are of great use and these studies so easily forgotten have done great work when the goal is reached.

Elkhorn Independent: A young man just graduated at Columbia, and worth $25,000,000 has announced that his business in life will be to improve the condition of the poor. The name of this original young citizen is Marcellus Hartley Dodge, and the result of his labors will be noted with interest.

Milwaukee News: In welcoming the Kaiser aboard the Kearsarge, Admiral Cotton took occasion to tell Wilhelm that the reception he received was a mere imitation of the warm welcome he'd get if he should visit American soil. It surely would be a hot time, if the Kaiser, and Theodore should get together.

ORGAN RECITAL WAS BRILLIANT

DR. BISCHOFF, ASSISTED BY HIS WIFE, APPEARED.

AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Mr. David Jeffris, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Jeffris, and Miss Jeffris Entertain Very Handsomely.

The Bischoff organ and song recital, followed by a reception with which Mr. David Jeffris, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Jeffris, and Miss Jeffris entertained at the Congregational church last evening, was a brilliant affair.

Dr. Bischoff's return to this city was a matter of unalloyed pleasure to his admirers who had heard his magnificent execution upon the organ, the instrument which he rules as a master, when he was at the Institute for the Blind, and later when he occupied the organist's bench at the Congregational church.

Special Organ Solos

The Peer Gynt suite by Grieg, an original sonata movement, the Pilgrim's Chorus from Tannhauser, three lighter numbers—the Mendelssohn Spring Song, the Rubenstein Melody in F, and a Swedish melody by Dr. Bischoff, himself—and the glorious overture to William Tell with which his share in the recital closed, all served to reveal Dr. Bischoff's scholarly and masterful control of the organ. He was not unaided by the splendid instrument which was his to command last evening—the Jeffris gift to the Congregational church. To many the wonderful artistic equipment which he exhibited was a revelation. Every shade of tone color was employed, from the sweetly pathetic to the sublimely grandiose. To his hearers, however, the element of his own personality seemed dominant, and the numbers of his own creation were received with expressed joy.

Songs by Mrs. Bischoff

In the recital Dr. Bischoff was assisted by Mrs. Esie Bond Bischoff, whose rich soprano voice filled the auditorium with delightful melody. Her upper tones were especially pure and well sustained, and her rendition of the charming songs which she had selected added greatly in making the recital so completely pleasing.

Mrs. Bischoff's songs were Donizetti's O Luce di Quest'Anima; David's Perle du Brasil; Gounod's Chante, Dormi, Riez; two Lehmann songs, Cupid and the Rose, and You and I; A Little Thief by Stern; In Der Marznacht, by Taubert; and three of Bischoff's own—Sweetheart, My Sweetheart, The Nightingale Sings, and Good Night Sweet Dreams.

Reception to Musicians

The decorations of the church were notable. Drapings, colored lights, and a profusion of flowers were lavishly employed in the auditorium, parlors, and club room.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffris received at the doors of the church, preceding the recital, a large number of young men and young ladies acting as usher and following the recital a reception to meet Dr. and Mrs. Bischoff was held in the parlors.

The announcement that the Canadian Pacific is considering the plan of establishing a new freight schedule on products to the Canadian northwest and Pacific coast and oriental points is taken as an effort to forestall Mr. Hill's plans to attract products of the orient to the Puget sound ports and to open the markets of the orient to the products of the American middle west.

FURNITURE FOR NEW POSTOFFICE

Government Furniture Inspector To Be Here To Talk About Furnishing the Federal Building.

In a dispatch published this morning in the Milwaukee Sentinel, the statement is made that the general order for the Postoffice department in Washington relative to the stopping of all rural free delivery on routes where less than a hundred families are served and less than three thousand pieces of mail are handled will not effect Green Bay. It has been learned that no such order has been received at the local office and in fact no reference to either the present rural routes or the establishing of the six new ones laid out some time ago have been made since Mr. Walker was here several weeks ago and conducted examinations for rural route carriers. Should such an order be received it will not effect any of the routes now established as the four at present operation July 1, but there is considerable delay in Washington at present and Rock county must wait its turn.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, July 9, 1863.—Lee is reported to be fortifying on or near the old Antietam battle ground. His wagon train is between Williamsburg and Sharpsburg, endeavoring to cross the Potomac.

There is no doubt that the French have occupied the city of Mexico, and that the government of that country is practically overthrown. The French army took possession of the capital on the 3rd inst. The army of Juarez has dwindled down to 6,000 men, almost destitute of artillery.

The invasion of Pennsylvania has

Weekly Crop Report.

The high temperature throughout the week together with the abundant moisture and warm sunshine, have furnished ideal conditions for a rapid growth. The midday temperatures have generally averaged between 80 and 90 degrees during the week, while the nights have been correspondingly warm.

Thunderstorms of more or less severity have occurred at frequent intervals throughout the state, accompanied by heavy rains, and in a few localities hail. The hail occurred only in limited areas and the damage was slight.

The rains have been very beneficial, as in many sections the soil was becoming very dry. In a few localities some damage by washing is reported, but this occurred only on light hillside soils.

Corn
The high temperature and warm rains have caused a very great improvement in corn. It has improved greatly in color and vitality and in a few localities is nearly up to the average condition at this date. Taking the state as a whole the crop is backward but with favorable weather during July and August may yet make a fair crop.

Winter Wheat and Rye
These crops are maturing rapidly, and in some of the southern counties wheat is ready to cut. With favorable weather much harvesting will be done this week. These crops are considered generally very satisfactory, except in those sections where damaged by frosts.

Oats, Barley and Spring Wheat
The rains have been very beneficial to spring grains, which have made rapid progress toward maturity during the week. In some of the northern counties where the lack of rain during June was serious, oats are reported as heading out short. In most sections, however, spring grains give promise of very good yields.

Potatoes
have made very rapid growth during the week and are now in excellent condition. Bugs are very numerous, in many sections and doing considerable damage.

Tobacco
The weather has been very favorable for tobacco, which is growing rapidly and presents a strong, healthy appearance. A few light hailstorms were reported from the tobacco districts, but the damage was slight.

Hay
The frequent showers during the week interfered with haying and damaged some clover that had been cut. Timothy has matured slowly and the delay caused by the rain has not been serious. A large hay crop will be harvested.

Pastures
have improved greatly during the week and are now furnishing an abundance of feed.

Minor Crops
Peas are reported in excellent condition. Sugar beets have made rapid growth during the week, but in some localities, the fields are weedy. Gardens improving.

Southern Section
Janesville, Rock county: A six weeks drought was broken Friday night with a good rain; oats heading out short; barley fair height, but heads short.—Geo. Cary.

Pardeeville, Columbia county:
Week too wet for cultivating and haying; corn growing rapidly; potatoes looking fine sugar beets good.—Asa Smith.

Milton, Rock county:
Abundant showers with warmer weather helped corn; haying is at a standstill; little timothy cut; clover crop very heavy.—J. H. Burdick.

Marshall Dane county:
Very heavy rains occurred during the week; crops on low lands damaged by the rains; hay crop large, but much is damaged by the continued wet weather; corn is making good growth.—M. Lindas.

REAL NEW YORKERS

KNICKERBOCKERS THE SWELLEST OF THE SWELL.

Still Consider Themselves the Only True Aristocracy of the City—Famous Names That Are on the Roll of Honor.

(Special Correspondence.)

When the corner stone of the social fabric of New York was laid 250 years ago that unrecorded ceremony was performed by the group of families whom we speak of as the Knickerbockers. They brought with them from Holland or the adjacent countries a little set of social traditions based upon a comfortable family life, a decent interchange of social amenities, a kindly yet generous and elegant hospitality, a code of morals and manners that were the happiest expressions of Europe's civilization. It was as different from the cold and formal social life of the Puritans of New England, on the one side, as it was from the hearty, boisterous, wine drinking and foxhunting English colonists of the Virginia settlement. It established for the American colonies a social code whose rulings have never been questioned with advantage to the questioners. And though sadly shaken in numbers and in fortunes the Knickerbocker element still continues to represent the true aristocracy of New York, the envy of the nouveaux riches who knocked in vain at their doors.

The families that now preserve the old Knickerbocker spirit in its best sense are the Barclays, Beekmans, Delafields, De Poysters, Duers, Gardiners, Gocelets, Gerrys, Hamersleys, Joneses, Hones, Livingstons, Morrisons, Millises, Rhinelanders, Roosevelts, Schermerhorns and Stuyvesants.

Of the women in this set who hold most firmly to the Knickerbocker code of social laws Mrs. Maturin Delafield and Mrs. Ogden Mills stand at the head. Mrs. Ogden Mills never forgets she is a Livingston no more than she forgets or permits others to forget her marked resemblance to Queen Alexandra. But greater than this resemblance to the Queen to the mind of "Teenie" Mills is that she is a Liv-Ingston. The only thing that can equal this in the minds of the Knickerbocker set is to be a Delafield or a Roosevelt. As for those names that figure so much more often in the society columns—the Astors, Vanderbilts, Whitneys and what not—"Ah, my dear," one of these dowagers will protest, "they are so very rowdy and vulgar and impossible!"

The Delafields, in point of age, are almost the youngest of the Knickerbockers, for John Delafield, the first of the name to come to America, arrived in New York in 1783, his home on Long Island, opposite Blackwell's Island, having been for many years one of the finest mansions around New York. Gen. Richard Delafield, 1798-1873, became a brigadier general and chief of engineers in the United States army, and Major Joseph Delafield fought in the war of 1812, and after the war resigned and became agent of the government in fixing the Northern boundary of the United States under the treaty of Glent.

Although one of the Gardiners came to America in 1635, landing at Boston, it was not until 1639 that John Lion Gardiner removed to Gardiner's Island, at the end of Long Island, and in 1667 he was made "lord of the manor," a title the family has maintained until the present day. Lion Gardiner, who is a student at Princeton, being the thirteenth of his name to bear that title. The daughter of the first John Lion, Elizabeth, was the first child of English parentage born in New York. The present Mrs. John Lion Gardiner was the founder of the original Society of Colonial Dames. The original way of spelling the name Lion was changed to Lyon some years ago, but the present heir has restored the old form. The Gardiner estate is entailed, and has been so for 260 years. It is the only instance of so long an entail in America.

The old Morris family has only three members in the Knickerbocker set. The Morrisons were a great landowning family in the New Netherlands. Col. Lewis Morris of the English army was the first of the name to come to America, in the year 1674. He regained the possession of his brother's estates in The Bronx district, which had been confiscated by the Dutch, and thus established the fortunes of the house of Morris on American soil. This became a manor under a grant from Gov. Fletcher. Col. Morris's nephew, another Lewis Morris, succeeded to this estate. He was a brilliant man, and was the first native-born Chief Justice of the State of New York. One of his sons, still another Lewis Morris, was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and members of the family served in the army and navy of the United States.

Although the Rhinelanders have been prominently identified with the history of the city of New York for more than 200 years, there are now only four of the name occupying a place in society. The Rhinelanders set-

HE DIED IN 1777 AND IS BURIED IN TRINITY GRAVEYARD. IN 1884 THE RHINELANDERS PURCHASED THE ANCIENT CASTLE OF SCHONBERG, ON THE RHINE, WHICH OVERLOOKS THE ORIGINAL LANDS OF THE FAMILY.

The first of the Roosevelts came to America in 1651, and the family has ever since been prominent in the civic and social life of New York. Claremont was originally one of the country seats of the family. Next to the Livingstons, the Roosevelts are the strongest numerically in the Knickerbocker set, and, like that family, are the keenest in the keeping up of its traditions.

TRUE PREVENTIVE OF HAY FEVER

Hyomel Destroys Germs of The Disease and Keeps People Well.

There can be little or no doubt as to hay fever being a germ disease.

It is, too, one disease where prevention is much easier than a cure.

All who are subject to this disagreeable trouble should use Hyomel daily for at least two weeks before the time of their annual attack.

In this way the annoying paroxysms of sneezing, running at the nose and watery and smarting eyes can be avoided.

This remarkable discovery makes it possible for anyone to breathe air at home which is almost identical with that of the Adirondacks or White Mountains or other resorts.

where hay fever sufferers go to escape their trouble.

If, however, Hyomel has not been used until the disease has begun, it is necessary to use it more frequently.

At least half dozen times daily, and Hyomel Balm should be rubbed into the nostrils both morning and at night.

This treatment will relieve at once and will effect a cure in nearly every case.

Kings' Pharmacy has a complete line of the Hyomel goods, and will sell an outfit of Inhaler, Hyomel and medicine dropper for $1.00, and will also agree to refund the money if the treatment does not give satisfaction.

Do not try to cure hay fever by dosing the stomach. Breathe Hyomel and in that way the medication will reach the minutest air cells of the nose, throat and lungs, soothe and heal the irritated mucous membrane, and prevent and cure all hay fever troubles.

IN LINE FOR IMPROVEMENTS

DETENTION HOSPITAL SAID TO NEED SLIGHT ADDITIONS.

IS A SUBSTANTIAL BUILDING

City's Pest House is a Neat and Cleanly Place—Occupied by Immune Persons.

Nearly everybody knows that the city owns a pesthouse, politely referred to as a detention hospital. Some of the people who have driven down the road past Buob's brewery, toward the Cement Post factory, have seen the building. But it is not a place with which the average citizen has any overwhelming yearning to become more closely acquainted.

Just how ignorant many persons are regarding the city's detention hospital was shown at the last gathering of the city fathers. The question of needed improvements was brought up, and one alderman admitted that he did not know where the building was located.

To be insured. On the recommendation of the finance committee it was decided to have the building insured, for it developed that in case of fire the damage would be a complete financial loss to the city. It was evident, however, that the majority of the council could not have estimated the value of the building within a thousand dollars, and very naturally so. The building which is built to comply with the law requiring a place to which smallpox patients may be removed can never be a popular place.

The building is a plain building of severe but neat appearance, painted in one shade of gray. It is two stories in height and has a cellar. The lower floor is designed for the persons who occupy the house the year around, to care for it and in case of emergency to care for patients. It is entirely separated from the second floor, which is the hospital and can be entered only by an outside stairway. The building is located at some distance from the road on the elevation just east of the Buob brewery.

A Good Building. On the lower floor the rooms are furnished as any other dwelling place. Despite the unpleasant associations, the building is not a bad place in which to live, and is said, to be fully as comfortable as the majority of working men's houses in the city.

On the floor above it is very different. There are five bedrooms, one of which is large enough to contain several beds and may be used as a ward room, and a small wash and store room. No pictures adorn the walls; there is no more woodwork than is required, behind which the deadly pest germs might find lodging; and plain window shades obstruct the rays of light. Curtains and hangings of any kind are tabooed. The walls are calcimined.

Scrupulously Clean. So far as absolute cleanliness and freedom from loathsome germs are concerned, the city could not ask a more model place. One physician said that he would as willingly be treated for disease there as at a hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Phelps are employed by the city to live in the hospital, caring for it. They have both undergone smallpox and other contagious diseases and are entirely immune. In case patients are taken to the hospital they care for them, and do what cooking is required, and it is said that the patients in the past have had no complaint to make in regard to the fare. Mr. Phelps is one of the city's special police, and has authority to preserve order in case of any disturbance.

Improvements Needed. At the last council meeting it was suggested that a few improvements were needed. The most crying need is for city water, or for a drive well. A cistern which is kept scrupulously clean, is the only source of water at the hospital, and all drinking water must be carried from a neighboring well. The latter necessity is not only inconvenient but dangerous, in forcing the occupants of the house in which the stricken patients are quarantined, to approach other persons.

A cheap bath tub would be convenient, although not necessary. If there is no increase in the number of patients, the present supply of bedding is said to be adequate. Last Friday a diphtheria patient was released from the hospital. Previous to that another diphtheria and two scarlet fever cases completed the list of occupants of the hospital in nearly twelve months past.

BEFORE THE GREAT JUDGE

Mrs. Charles H. Smith. After nineteen weeks of patient suffering, Mrs. Charles H. Smith passed to her final reward at nine o'clock this morning. Her maiden name was Margaretta Elizabeth Griffiths; she was born in Ystradgynlais, South Wales, Oct. 1, 1844. She came to Janesville with her mother, Caroline Griffiths June 29, 1850, and has lived here continuously since that time. One daughter, Miss Ora Smith, is left to mourn her loss. Mrs. Smith is well known and had a large circle of friends. The funeral will be Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the home, 16 Oaklawn. There will be service at the Baptist church, the Reverend R. M. Vaughan officiating. The Relief Corps will be in charge of the funeral and interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

HAND TRANSFIXED BY A RUSTY NAIL

Little Daughter of Mrs. David Griffin Falls Upon Nail—Foot Caught in the Sidewalk.

Mrs. David Griffin's three-year-old daughter yesterday had her hand pierced through with a ten-penny nail. The little child was toddling along the sidewalk near her home, dragging by a rope a long board with which the children had been playing. In it was a number of rusty nails, standing point upright. A crack in the walk caught the little girl's foot, throwing her prostrate upon the sidewalk. As she fell her hand came down upon the jagged point of one of the nails and out upon the other side. The child's progress is as satisfactory as could be expected.

LOCAL DOCTORS TALK OF POPE

CAREFUL LIVING PROLONGED PONTIFF'S LIFE.

IS A REMARKABLE CHARACTER

The Opinions of Men Versed in Diseases of a Similar Nature.

According to local physicians, the regular habits of Pope Leo, his careful life and inherited vitality, have been largely responsible for his long battle with death. His wonderful struggle for life, in spite of his great age of over 93 years, his slender body, weighing only about 90 pounds and the pains of the illness which have been harassing his frame, have called the attention of the medical world to the remarkable vitality of the pontiff. Although kept up by stimulants, his spark of life kept alive by careful work on the part of his physicians, the pope's death would long ago have been announced had it not been for his wonderful vigor.

The Opinions. His manner of living, care in the nature of the food he partook of, and the constant attention he received during his illness have had much to do with his great vitality, said Dr. R. W. E. Edden. "People now days would live longer if they took better care of themselves, and if there was less pie and cake sold."

Same View. "His manner of living, care in the nature of the food he partook of, and the constant attention he received during his illness have had much to do with his great vitality," said Dr. R. W. E. Edden. "People now days would live longer if they took better care of themselves, and if there was less pie and cake sold."

Too Conflicting. Dr. W. H. Palmer said that he had not given the matter enough thought or consideration to base any opinion but that anyway, the reports had been too vague and conflicting to know what the real condition of the pope might be.

READERS ARE NOT INFALLIBLE.

And Not Always Good Judges of Best Selling Material.

Theodosia Garrison (McRae Pickering) wrote a short story of flat life in New York, being the experiences of her father, her mother and herself during a recent cold spell when coal was scarce. She copied the style of Maurice Maeterlinck, now all the vogue with a handful of American worshippers, and declares that it was about the worst bit of work her pen ever turned out. When the editors of her favorite magazine, for which she had been writing for several years, looked over the sketch they marked it "not available" and hurried it back to her.

She sent it to another magazine where it was accepted and well paid for. When it appeared in print leading reviewers declared it to be the best thing of the day. One newspaper republished the whole story. The mail brought eulogistic letters from the editors of two magazines asking for similar sketches at Mrs. Garrison's own price. The editors of the magazine that had refused the "frozen" story had conviction fits when they learned what was going on, and have made desperate efforts to recapture the author with most liberal inducements. This goes to show that authors are poor judges of their own work, and that magazine editors are always making mistakes of judgment in passing upon the value of an article.

In Memory of Longfellow.

The Main Historical society is about to take steps toward the erection of a library building on the old Wadsworth-Longfellow estate in Portland, left by the will of Mrs. Pierce, Longfellow's sister, under conditions which require that to be done. There is over $14,000 on hand and pledged and the architect engaged is Alexander Wadsworth Longfellow of Boston, a nephew of the poet. It was estimated that the building would cost $20,000, but it is now expected to spend considerably more.

FARMERS GOT THE REPORT

TELEPHONE WEATHER SYSTEM WENT INTO EFFECT.

FIRST MESSAGE SENT TODAY

The Chief Operator Was the One Who Called Up Each Subscriber on Country Exchange.

"Hello! Weather report for today: Partly cloudy tonight, higher temperature, possibly local thunderstorms."

At ten o'clock this morning the chief operator in the Rock County Telephone company's central exchange, called up every subscriber in the Rock County Farmer's Telephone exchange and repeated the above message.

Telephone Weather Messages. This morning the weather bureau's telephone service went into effect in this city.

The above message is not verbatim. It is what Miss Skelly intended to say, and what she would have said if she had not been interrupted by mystified queries as to the meaning of her unexpected declaration. Each subscriber had a list of from six to twenty questions to fire back at her, and by the time she had told the last of the forty-odd subscribers in the farmers' exchange, the minutes had sprinted by at a breakneck gait.

Reports at Ten O'clock

After this it will be easier. The people at the other end of the line know what is coming, and shortly after ten o'clock each day they will be waiting for the report. Today each subscriber was called up separately. Tomorrow all who are on a single line will be called up at the same time, and the message repeated to them simultaneously.

The reports made in this way give the farmer, the person most vitally interested, the benefit of the report early in the day when it will help him. The system is being extended gradually throughout the state.

SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—The story opens with Alfred Bishop, a Georgia planter, closing a trade of $5,000 in mill stock for 5,000 acres of mountain land. Mrs. Bishop and their son Alan object to the trade. Mrs. Bishop's brother, Abner Daniel, tells a story. II.—The sale over, Bishop boasts that his land is on a prospective railroad. Tompkins, the former owner, has just unloaded a tract of 2,000 adjoining Bishop's. III.—Bishop goes to Atlanta to see Lawyer Perkins, who told him about the railroad. He has been deceived. The old man is so cast down that he returns without seeing his brother William or his daughter Adele, who is at her uncle's in Atlanta. IV.—Bishop has bought 20,000 acres of mountain land in all and mortgaged his plantation. Abner tells Rayburn to consult Miller, a land speculator. V.—Miller tells Alan about a dance at Darley. Alan's sweetheart, Dolly Barclay, will be there. Frank Hillhouse is attentive to Dolly. Craig, the banker. VI.—Dolly tells Alan that her father objects to his love quest. Barclay has also been caught on mountain land. VII and VIII.—Miller gives Alan cynical advice on love. Dolly's mother talks to her on her own love experiences. Dolly unhappily. IX.—Abner and Rev. Mr. Dole discuss religion. Pole Baker, the ex-moonshiner, whom Alan has reformed. X.—Abner goes to Barclay's and Dolly talks to him of Alan. He tells Alan of his own sweetheart who died and he still loves her. Alan will hope and wait. XI and XII.—Alan goes to Miller with a project for a railroad to the land. He redeems Pole Baker from the prison gang.

CHAPTER XIII.

IN the middle of the following week some of the young people of Darley gave a picnic at Marley's spring, a beautiful and picturesque spot about a mile below Bishop's farm. Alan had received an urgent invitation to join the party, and he rode down after dinner. It was a hot afternoon, and the party of a dozen couples had scattered in all directions in search of cool, shady nooks. Alan was by no means sure that Miss Barclay would be there; but, if the truth must be told, he went solely with the hope of at least getting another look at her. He was more than agreeably surprised, for just as he had hitched his horse to a hanging bow of an oak near the spring Frank Hillhouse came from the tangle of wild vines and underbrush on a little hillside and approached him.

"You are just the fellow I'm looking for," said Frank. "Miss Dolly's over there in a hammock, and I want to leave somebody with her. Old man Marley promised me the biggest watermelon in his patch if I'd come over for it. I won't be long."

"Oh, I don't care how long you are," smiled Alan. "You can stay all day if you want to."

"I thought you wouldn't mind," grinned Frank. "I used to think you were the one man I had to fight, but I reckon I was mistaken. A fellow in love imagines everybody in creation is against him."

Alan made no reply to this, but hurried away to where Dolly sat, a new magazine in her hands and a box of candles on the grass at her feet. "I saw you riding down the hill," she said, with a pretty flush and no little excitement. "To tell the truth, I sent Frank after the melon when I recog-business, and it concerns you. I fancy it is important. Anyway it may take you to town tonight."

"You don't mean it," he laughed. She looked very pretty in her light orange gown and big rustle hat, with its wide, flowing ribbons.

"Yes, it is a message from Rayburn Miller about that railroad idea of yours."

"Really? Then he told you about that?"

"Yes. He was down to see me last week. He didn't seem to think much of it then, but—he hesitated and smiled as if over the memory of something amusing—he's been thinking of it since. As Frank and I drove through the main street this morning—Frank had gone in a store to get a basket of fruit—he came to me on his way to the train for Atlanta. He hadn't time to say much, but he said if you were out here today to tell you to come in town tonight without fail, so as to meet him at his office early in the morning. He'll be back on the midnight train. I asked him if it was about the railroad, and he said it was; that he had discovered something that looked encouraging."

"I'm glad of that," said Alan, a thrill of excitement passing over him. "Rayburn threw cold water on my ideas the other day, and—"

"I know he did, and it was a shame," said Dolly warmly. "The idea of his thinking he is the only man in Georgia with originality! Anyway, I hope it will come to something."

"I certainly do," responded Alan. "It's the only thing I could think of to help my people, and I am willing to stake all I have on it—which is, after all, nothing but time and energy."

"Well, don't you let him or any one else discourage you," said the girl, her eyes flashing. "A man who listens to other people and puts his own ideas aside is unworthy of the brain God gave him. There is another thing"—her voice sank lower and her eyes sought the ground—"Rayburn Miller is a fine, all round man, but he is not perfect by any means. He talks freely to me, you know; he's known me since I was knee high. Well, he told me—he told me of the talk he had with you at the dance that night. Oh, that hurt me—hurt me!"

"He told you that?" exclaimed Alan in surprise.

"Yes, and it actually disgusted me. Does he think all men ought to act on that sort of advice? He might, for he has made an unnatural man of himself, with all his fancies for new faces, but you are not that kind, Alan, and I'm sorry you and he are so intimate; not that he can influence you much, but he has already in a way, and that has pained me deeply."

"He has influenced me?" cried Alan in surprise. "I think you are mistaken."

"You may not realize it, but he has," said Dolly, with gentle and yet unyielding earnestness. "You see, you are so very sensitive that it would not be hard to make you believe that a young man ought not to keep on caring for a girl whose parents object to his attentions."

"Ah!" He had caught her drift. There was a pause. At the foot of the hill a little brook ran merrily over the water browned stones, and its monotonous lapping could be heard distinctly. Under the trees across the open some of the couples had drawn together and were singing:

"I see the boat go round the bend, Goodbye, my lover, goodbye."

Dolly had said exactly what he had never hoped to hear her say, and the fact of her broaching such a subject in such a frank, determined way sent a glow of happiness all over him.

"I don't think," he began thoughtfully, "that Rayburn or any man could keep me from loving her full, expectant eyes and then plunging madly—could keep me from caring for you, from loving you with all my heart. Dolly, but it really is a terrible thing to know that you are robbing a girl of not only the love of her parents, but her rightful inheritance, when—when"—he hurried on, seeing that an impulse to speak was urging her to protest—"when you haven't a cent to your name and, moreover, have a black eye from your father's mistakes."

"I knew that's what he'd said!" declared the girl, almost white with anger. "I knew it! Oh, Alan, Rayburn Miller might be able to draw back and leave a girl at such a time, but no man could that truly loves us—as I believe you love me. I have known how you have felt all this time, and it has nearly broken my heart, but I could not write to you when you had never even told me what you have today. You must not let anybody or anything influence you, Alan. I'd rather be a poor man's wife and do my own work than let a paltry thing like my father's money keep me from standing by the man I love."

Alan's face was ablaze. He drew himself up and gazed at her, all his soul in his eyes. "Then I shall not give you up," he declared—"not for anything in the world. And if there is a chance in the railroad idea I shall work at it ten times as hard now that I have talked with you."

They sat together in blissful ignorance of the passage of time till some one shouted out that Frank Hillhouse was coming with the watermelon. Then all the couples in sight or hearing ran to the spring, where Hillhouse could be seen plunging the big melon into the water. Hattie Alexander and Charlie Durant, who had been perched on a jutting boulder high up on the hill behind Dolly and Alan, came half running, half sliding, down, catching at the trees to keep from falling.

"Better come get your teeth in that melon," Hattie said, with a knowing smile at Dolly. They lived next door to each other and were quite intimate.

"Come on, Alan," Dolly rose. "Frank will never forgive me if I don't have some."

"I shan't have time if I go to town tonight," replied Alan. "I have something to do at home first."

"Then I won't keep you," Dolly smiled, "for you must go and meet Rayburn Miller. I'm going to hope that he has had good luck in Atlanta."

The world had never seemed so full of joy and hope as Alan rode homeward. The sun was setting in glorious splendor beyond the towering mountains, above which the sky seemed an ocean of mother of pearl and liquid gold. Truly it was good to be alive. At the bars he met Abner Daniel with a fishing cane in his hands, his hair gored under his arm.

"I know right where you've been," he said, with a broad smile as he threw down the bars for Alan to pass through. "I seed that gang drive by in all their flurry this mornin', the queen bee in the lead with that little waistshift of a man."

Alan dismounted to prevent his uncle from putting up the bars, and they walked homeward side by side.

"Yes, and I've had the time of my life," said the young man. "I talked to her for a solid hour."

"I could see that in your face," said Abner quietly. "You couldn't hide it, an' I'll bet she didn't lose time in lettin' you know what she never could hide from me."

"We understand each other better now," admitted Alan.

"Well, I've certainly set my heart on the match—on gittin' her in our family," affirmed Abner. "Durned ef-I declare, sometimes I'm afeerd I'm gone on 'er myself. Yes, I want you an' her to make it. I want to set an' smoke an' chew on your front porch an' hear her back in the kitchen fryin' ham an' eggs, an'—the old man winked—"I don't know as I'd object to trottin' some'n on my knee to sorter pass the time betwixt meals."

"Oh, come off, Uncle Ab!" said Alan, with a flush. "That's going too far."

The old man winked his left eye round under his other arm. His eyes twinkled and he chuckled. "Tain't goin' as far as havin' one on each knee an' both pine blank alike an' exactly the same age. I've knowed that to happen in my day an' time, when nobody wasn't even lookin' for a increase."

WARSHIP TO GO TO VENEZUELA

AMERICAN BOATS ARE HELD

Government Forces Detain Steamers at San Fernando Belonging to the Orinoco Steamship Company—Fear That Rebels Will Harm the Craft.

Washington, July 9.—Secretary Moody will order a warship to Venezuela to secure the release of five American steamers detained at San Fernando and Bolivar by the Venezuelan revolutionary forces. The orders will be issued to the Bancroft.

W. W. Russell, American charge d'affaires at Caracas, advised the department of state that the president of the Orinoco Steamship company, an American concern, had informed him that two of his company's steamers were detained by the Venezuelan government forces at San Fernando, and three steamers were held at Bolivar.

Rebels Are Active. The gunboat Bancroft will be ordered to Bolivar, as there is fear the revolutionists will harm the vessels held by them. The Bancroft on Friday was ordered from San Juan, P. R., to Port of Spain, Trinidad, and has reached Port of Spain.

Information received last week that there was much insurgent activity which promised fighting and possible danger to American interests in eastern Venezuela, was the cause of the government's action in sending the Bancroft to Port of Spain, which is only a short distance from the Venezuelan coast. The warship was directed to remain there to await developments in Venezuela.

May Have Violated Blockade. No details of the seizure of the Orinoco Steamship company's vessels have been received here, and officials are at a loss to explain the course of the government and the insurgents.

One supposition is that the vessels detained at San Fernando were charged with violating the blockade decreed by the Venezuelan government. The United States government never has recognized this blockade, and will not do so.

The Bancroft's commander, Lieut. Commander A. E. Culver, will probably be instructed to demand the release of the detained or seized vessels, and in the event of refusal, to take them by force. It is believed, however, that the matter will not result in a hostile clash between the Bancroft and the Venezuelan government forces or the insurgents.

If any city or town in the union has sufficient proof on the following subject it is Janesville. Genuine merit is finding its reward in the hearty endorsement of local citizens. When people right here at home, friends and neighbors of our readers give a statement like the following for publication it is proof convincing for the most skeptical. Read this testimony:

Mrs. S. L. Belden of 64 S. River street says: "During two or three years I suffered most of the time with a terrific dragging down pain in my back just over the kidneys. It was very trying when I was at work and if I did any lifting my bladder became affected causing me considerable annoyance. I also had attacks of headache (which seemed like congestion in the top and back of my head). When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I did not have any too much confidence in them but my daughter got a box at the People's Drug Co.'s store and persuaded me to use them. They took right hold and made a wonderful change in my condition. I hardly realized how bad I was until Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the afflictions."

Lebanon Cedars Planted by Solomon Still Live

These Magnificent Trees Have Excited the Admiration of Mankind Through Centuries

Two mighty ranges in the old world and in the new, nature has set up a temple unbuild by hand, to compel the admiration and excite the wonder of those creatures of a day, mankind. In the sequoia groves of California there stand trees so old that they may well have cast their leaves and shed their seed on the night of the Nativity. On Mount Lebanon the survivors of the groves which escaped King Solomon's four-score thousand hewers still stretch their gigantic arms and scatter their cones for the children of the west to bear away and propagate, that they may have before their eyes the off-spring of the oldest trees of which history has spoken. "Athens's olive, or Dodona's oaks," have not lived so long in story. It is nearly 30 centuries since King David said: "I dwell in a house of cedar, but the Ark of God dwelleth within curtains." Solomon, who knew every plant, "from the cedar that is in Lebanon to the hyssop that groweth on the wall," was only not wise in this, that he cut the cedars, but did not, so far as history tells, ever plant where he had reaped. Still the cedars flourished, the mightiest of all the trees, and the most inspiring to human imagination. Ezekiel must have seen them, with their roots spreading towards the stinct in man. They believed them to understand the changes of the seasons that they stirred their vast branches as if they were limbs, and could spread out or contract their boughs, inclining them towards heaven or towards earth, according as the snow prepared to fall or melt. Perhaps the earliest account of a visit to the cedar grove is that by Belon, who climbed the Lebanon in 1550 A. D. It will be interesting to compare what he saw with the photograph here shown of surviving cedars today. "At a considerable height up the mountain the traveler arrives at the monastery of the Virgin Mary, which is situated in a valley. Thence, proceeding four miles further up the mountain, he will arrive at the cedars, the Maronites acting as guides. The cedars stand in a valley and not on the top of the mountain, and they are said to number 25, though it is difficult to count them, they being only distant from one another a few paces. These the archbishop of Damascus endeavored to prove were those which Solomon planted with his own hands, in the quincunx manner in which they now stand. No other tree grows in the valley in which they are situated, and it is generally so covered with snow as to be only accessible in summer."

snow torrents on the mountain-sides, for he says of the cedar: "Thus was he fair in his greatness, in the length of his branches, for the waters made him great." And their growth was then the same as now, with flat and spreading heads. "His top," says the prophet, "is among the thick boughs." To the days of St. Augustine the cedar was the type of pride and strength. "Cedar of Lebanon, whom God hath not yet broken," is his apostrophe to "overweening greatness tottering to its fall."

That the thought of the cedar should have impressed beyond measure the imagination of the Christian west is not surprising. It was a tree which no European had seen, yet to which their one holy book made constant allusions. Though the cedar flourished then, and survives yet on the Atlas mountains and on a few ranges in Asia Minor, these were never visited, and scarcely known. But the tradition passed on from generation to generation that high on Lebanon there still grew these almost sacred trees, there, and nowhere else, as the world then thought, and continued to arouse men's curiosity and stimulate their interest. It does not appear that during the Crusades any European penetrated to the groves. The Lebanon lay in the enemy's country, and, further, was in possession of the Assassins, with their mysterious chief, the Old Man of the Mountains. Thus guarded by remote distance, and for a time by the presence of the murderous fanatics near the base of the mountains, the cedars stood for centuries unvisited, and drank up the snow-waters with their roots, uninjured by the ax, or by the fires of wandering travelers, whose careless brands have more than once since consumed the groves of Hermon. Meantime, they still remained the most renowned natural monuments in the world.

"The Arabs of all sects entertained a traditional veneration for these trees. They attributed to them not only a vegetative power which enabled them to live eternally, but also an intelligence, which caused them to show signs of wisdom and foresight similar to those of wisdom and in-

These gigantic cedars are fortunately not the only survivors. In one grove there were in 1892 nearly 500 younger trees. In 1902 it was noted that while the smallest of the ancient trees measured 36 feet 9 inches in circumference, there were 49 younger ones measuring from 10 to 12 feet beneath the snows of Hermon.

The records of British forestry give the date at which the cedar of Lebanon was introduced into England in the middle of the seventeenth century. If this is correct, the great cedar of Chichester rectory, near Wantage in Berkshire, has strong claims to be one of the first three planted in England subsequent to 1641. The rectory is an interesting one. The rectory, a very ancient one, which drew such a large share of the proceeds of the three manors of Free-thornes, Maltravers and Rampanes in that parish, that they each conceded about a third of his land to the rector in lieu of his tithes, became the possession of Corpus college at Oxford, the last of the Corpus rectors being the Rev. C. J. Cornish, who now holds it. In the later years of the reign of Charles I. Corpus college granted it to the first oriental scholar of the day, Dr. Pocock, who, according to an unbroken tradition, planted this cedar from a cone which he had brought with him from Lebanon. Two other cedars, now at Higdellere, are said to have been raised from cones brought by him at the same time.

THE BEST EXERCISE

BRISK WALK A CURE FOR ALL BODILY ILLS.

Of the Greatest Benefit, Both Mentally and Physically, is a Stroll in the Open Air. One of the Greatest Stimulants of Thought.

"Truly this is a day of fads, but none so sensible or beneficial as the walking fad, which society in every degree has now adopted," remarked a prominent physician, says the Washington Post.

"There is nothing like the open air, and people are now beginning to realize this. There are always a number of people who seem happiest when they go about with long faces and sour looks, and are ever ready to tell you in doleful tones that life is not worth the living. If you will observe, these are the people who wear heavy over-shoes, wrap up to their eyes in woolen clothing and buy a variety of patent medicines, much of which could be dispensed with by suitable warm clothing and a good brisk walk every day. "Walking is an ideal exercise, and, apart from the great benefit derived from the action of the muscles brought into play by the movement of the legs and arms, the mind, too, is helped by this wholesome practice.

"It is only natural to suppose that the brain tires of monotonous surroundings, the same scenery, the awful sameness of things, all soon palls upon one, and the result is frequently fatal, certainly accountable to a large degree for many nervous disorders, when the antidote for many of the so-called bodily ills could be found in a short walk through a pretty park. In walking the mind naturally becomes diverted and so interested in things other than one's own misfortunes, and at once the attitude changes to one of cheer. Again, walking is one of the greatest stimulants of thought. Take, for instance, our greatest thinkers, orators, actors, in fact, all literary people and you will discover that they were and those of today are all great walkers. In walking one gathers incident and illustration fresh and full of actual detail, and when the author or orator pictures a thing in this living fashion he immediately carries conviction with him, and so furnishes the secret of his success. While from a physical standpoint there is nothing that will so quickly induce a free circulation of the blood or so effectively reduce flesh as a good walk, and it is much safer than starving, for not infrequently does Mrs. Burden become Mrs. Gray through the means of an unwise and unwholesome diet in her desire to obtain a sylphlike figure. Walk in the fresh, pure air, and breathe properly, inhaling the air through the nostrils that the lungs may become filled, and the pancreas will be found for many bodily ills and vexations of the day."

LIEUT. HOBSON AS A BOY.

Very Popular With His Classmates at Annapolis.

When he was a boy Lieut. Hobson was called "The Parson" at Annapolis because of his Christianity.

One day young Hobson, with the rest of his class, was at the swimming lesson. He was far out, along the rope in the breakers. It would be almost sure drowning to lose hold of the rope. But it happened by some mischance that as Hobson pressed still farther out he met a classmate coming in, clinging for life to the rope. The two were alone out there in the breakers.

The two lads looked into each other's eyes. It was a hard moment for the youngsters. Safe passages along the rope for both was nearly an impossibility.

Hobson gave way to his classmate, keeping the merest touch on the rope. But somehow at the moment of the boy's passing him even this slight hold gave way, and he sank in the breakers.

The boy left on the rope got in and sent aid and Hobson was brought ashore. All supposed he was dead, but he revived finally.

"Nobody could have come out of it alive but Hobson," was the general cry. "He is a tough fellow to stand that!" And from that day he was known among his classmates as "Parson Tough."—Washington Star.

See Jones.

"Herod wasn't such a bad sort of an old chap."

"You horrify me! How can you justify such a slaughter of infants?"

"We'll, perhaps, I can't justify it, but there may have been extenuating circumstances."

"Has Jones ever buttonholed you for an hour straight while he told you of the bright sayings of his little boy?"

"No; but about those extenuating circumstances that you—"

"Oh, see Jones!"—Houston Post.

Dairying in Ireland.

Ireland is determined to be in the front in dairying. It is devising new methods for interesting those engaged in it. One of the best agencies to be employed is that of surprise butter competitions. The object is to encourage the making of good butter and careful packing.

QUAKER CITY SCENE OF RIOT

NEGRESS KILLS AN ONLOOKER

Hurls a Heavy Seashell at Man, Who Dodges It, the Missile Striking a Youth in Delicate Health, Who Dies in Ambulance.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 9.—Precipitated by a fight between a white boy and a young negro, a race riot was waged on Redner street, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third. John Mahon, white, 23 years old, of 2153 Ridge avenue, was struck on the head with a heavy seashell and killed. Mrs. Corn Grinley, a negress of 2208 Redner street has been arrested, charged with killing him. The serious aspect of the trouble is increased by the spirit shown by the white people, who seem to be ready to resort to violence against the blacks on slight provocation.

Bystander Is Killed.
Redner street, a small thoroughfare, is inhabited by negroes and whites in about equal proportions. During the quarrel between the boys their parents interfered, and finally many neighbors became involved. Immense crowds were attracted by the riot and among the spectators was John Mahon, a young man in delicate health.

Mrs. Grinley, according to witnesses of the affair, stood on her front steps and hurled the seashell at James Reagan, a white man. Accounts differ as to whether or not she succeeded in hitting him, but a moment later Mahon was found lying unconscious on the pavement with blood spurting from his mouth.

Dodges Missile.
Reagan, who has been locked up as witness, claims that he dodged the shell and that it hit Mahon on the neck. He died while being conveyed to a hospital.

Mrs. Grinley with her two small children, one a baby in arms and the other about 2 years old, was arrested. She denies that the shell which she threw hit Mahon, and says that she hit only Reagan, who has a large gash over his eye.

Judge Revokes Order.
Evansville, Ind., July 9.—Acting under the orders of Judge Rasch, Sheriff Kratz left secretly for the Indian reformatory at Jeffersonville to bring back Lee Brown, the wounded negro who killed Patrolman Massey. It was this killing and the desire of the mob to lynch Brown that precipitated the rioting here. Brown was removed to the state prison at Jeffersonville for safety. When Gov. Durbin was told of this action, he regarded the situation here as being too strained, and, fearing a renewal of the recent riots, he asked Judge Rasch to countermand his order. This was done, and Brown's trial has been indefinitely postponed.

Arrests for Rioting.
There were five arrests on grand jury indictments for the rioting Sunday night. Those under arrest are Richard Grosbeck, who was socialist candidate for clerk; A. P. Cardwell, a furniture merchant; J. T. Zeigler, William Trimble and James Steele. All were released under bond.

John Barnett, the eleventh riot victim, is dead.

The police authorities say that while many of those shot by the militia were reputable persons and no doubt drawn into the crowd from curiosity, two or three of those killed were disturbers and had caused the police trouble before.

BAD FIRE AT STONE FORD, ILL.

Harrisburg, Ill., July 9.—The village of Stone Ford, fourteen miles south of this city, was the scene of a very destructive fire. The loss will aggregate $20,000. Very little insurance was carried by any of the losers. About six weeks ago the business part of the village west of the railroad was destroyed, and with the fire on the east side very little of the business part of the town remains standing.

PLACE CORPSE ON THE TRACKS

Tramps Hide Murder and Robbery of a Michigan Man.

St. Joseph, Mich., July 9.—It is believed by the police authorities of this place that J. J. Moore, whose body was found mangled on the tracks of the Big Four railroad, was murdered by tramps and the remains thrown on the rails to conceal the crime. It is said that Moore had been seen with two tramps at Eau Claire, Mich., and that later the three were engaged in a quarrel. Moore is supposed to have had considerable money.

RECOMMENDS NAVAL MILITIA

Congressman Calls Attention to Services of Alton Company.

Washington, July 9.—Representative Rodenburg of Illinois has brought formally to the attention of the navy department the efficient services rendered by the Alton naval militia during the big flood at East St. Louis. He declares that they have saved much property and many lives and removed no fewer than 1,200 people from houses in the flooded district. The navy department will suitably acknowledge these services.

Johnny Bull Behind.

The British postoffice department handled last year ninety-two pieces of mail matter per capita of population, while the United States postoffice handled 197 pieces per capita.

KILLS MAN FOR THIRTY CENTS

Assault With Bare Fists Follows Refusal to Pay Poker Debt.

Davis City, Iowa, July 9.—Because Frank Thompson owed him 30 cents as the result of a game of poker which they had just finished, Enoch Burrell killed Thompson. As the game broke up Burrell demanded his money, and when his demand was refused he struck Thompson on the temple with his bare fist twice. Death was said to be instantaneous. Burrell has been arrested and is in jail at Lamoni.

CALL A CINCINNATI PROFESSOR

Western Theological Seminary Trustees Offer Chair to Rev. Mr. Schaff.

Pittsburg, July 9.—Rev. Mr. David S. Schaff, professor of church history in Lane seminary, Cincinnati, has been chosen by the special committee of the board of trustees of Western Theological seminary, Allegheny, to fill the chair left vacant by the resignation of Rev. Dr. W. H. Jeffers last June. The choice was approved at a special meeting of the board. He will be tendered the position at once.
